

Governments are always at the center of constitutional disputes in Canada. Whether an individual is challenging the jurisdiction of one level of government to enact certain legislation, or whether an individual is claiming that their rights have been infringed by government action or legislation, the Crown will always be involved. Below are a list of federal and provincial links that could prove relevant in your studies. Federal Departments

- Department of Justice
- Intergovernmental Affairs
- Provincial Departments
- Attorney General of Ontario
- Ontario Human Rights Commission
- Ministry of Justice, Quebec
- Ministry of Justice, Alberta
- Attorney General of British Columbia
- British Columbia Law Reform Commission
- Manitoba Human Rights Commission